

ANOTHER FOND HOPE OF SLAVIO HAS BEEN BLASTED

But He Won't Take His Petition to Mr. Stroup.

HOW MR. VIGIL OVERLOOKED A BET WHILE SUPERINTENDENT

There's another one on 'Slavio.' Slavio has become reconciled to the fact that he is no longer superintendent of the school of Bernillo county and has accepted that fact as a final, inevitable and eternal verity which he must look upon with resignation.

Slavio has not, however, made up his mind to resign, that pre-eminence in the eyes of his fellow citizens of the suburb of Baretas, which he has acquired while occupying the responsible and exalted position of superintendent of the school of Bernillo county.

Slavio has discovered that there have been serious defections among his adherents and admirers in the confines of Baretas and, not wishing to relinquish the position of superintendent of the school of Bernillo county, he has decided to make a last effort to retain his position by presenting a petition to Mr. Stroup, the county superintendent, asking that he be appointed to the position of superintendent of the school of Bernillo county.

Accordingly, after mature deliberation, Slavio, with the aid of his faithful henchmen, signed by his trusty henchmen, asking that he be appointed to the position of superintendent of the school of Bernillo county, he has decided to make a last effort to retain his position by presenting a petition to Mr. Stroup, the county superintendent, asking that he be appointed to the position of superintendent of the school of Bernillo county.

The petition was duly presented to the board by Slavio, who, in the presence of Mr. Stroup, of the board of commissioners, examined the petition. "Why, Mr. Vigil, it is not necessary to submit any petition to the commissioners," said Mr. Stroup. "The county superintendent has the power of dividing up a school district in this way without asking us. You'll have to go to Mr. Stroup with your petition."

Slavio's face was a study. Silently he took the petition, jammed it in his pocket and headed for the door.

"Dam," said Slavio. "An' see, month ago I myself could fix that!"

THE LEGEND OF THE MOQUI INDIANS

HOW STRANGE PEOPLE CAME TO CROSS THE PAINTED DESERT.

(Aztec, N. M. Index.)

Captain John Moss, of La Plata county, Colorado, relates the following legend of the cliff dwellers, as obtained by him from the head men of the Moqui pueblo, which he visited on route from Chaffee to the school of Bernillo county, Colorado, just north of San Juan county, New Mexico, as it now stands on the maps, was once a land of paradise, densely populated. The inhabitants lived in peace and harmony with the world as known to them. They knew nothing of the arts of war, and their lands produced abundantly. They were a happy and prosperous people and lived in the love and fear of their God. But eventually a terrible trembling of the earth occurred. The waters disappeared and great mountains occupied their places, while old mountains crumbled into dust and new water courses appeared. The larger part of the people were destroyed.

The remainder, however, continued their avocations, made new homes and again began to prosper and multiply. They discovered a yellow metallic substance in many of the streams and a bright white metal in the mountains. They began to use the metals as a barrier and trade with one another according to the Moqui tradition and by their method of computing time, this must have occurred about 6,000 years ago. This condition of affairs prevailed until within a thousand years ago, when they were visited by strange strangers whom they treated hospitably. These visits became more frequent and annoying. The troublesome neighbors began to force upon them, and devastated their lands.

So, to save their lives they built houses high up on the cliffs, where they could store food and hide away until the invaders should leave. But one summer, the northern invaders came with their families and settled down, laying siege, as it were, to the houses and lands and starving in their little niches in the rocks, they could only steal away at night and wander from place to place across the mesa. At the Cristobles, or last battle ground, near the head of McElmo canyon, they waited for rest and to make preparations for crossing the great lake (now the lower portion of the Montezuma valley and extending south and west into the desert lands of Arizona). Here they erected fortifications and watch towers, and filled the adjoining caves full of rest for the human wrens and sparrows, until their boats could be built. When the last of the women and children were embarked and well out to sea, the alarm and signal were given from one of the watch towers that their foes had pursued them and were upon them.

For long months the northern fought and were driven back, but as often they came again, with renewed numbers. At length, however, the besiegers were driven away. But the tradition goes on to say, in evidence of the great battle, that the hollows of the rocks were filled to the brim with the mounted bodies and blood of conquerors and conquered, and that the veins of blood ran down the canyon. It was a victory such as they could not afford to risk again, and therefore they fled to the bottom of the canyon, where they lived, preserving more carefully and purely the history and veneration of their forefathers, and to love and fear God, than many more enlightened nations.

Unknown Suicide.

The badly decomposed body of an unknown man was found near Needles last Thursday. It was a plain case of suicide, as the man had taken every precaution to obliterate every trace of his identity. A bottle of strychnine, part of the contents gone, was found.—Yuma Sun.

To Work the Jail Birds.

The proposed working of the prisoners in the county jail on the county roads leading to Prescott within a radius of five miles came up for discussion before the board of supervisors Monday and Chairman Day Sinclair was instructed to purchase a team and wagon for the use of the prisoners, to be placed at work on the roads.

Burglary at Jerome.

A burglar, name unknown, who was captured in the business house known as the Jerome Meat Market, at Jerome, about noon on Sunday last, by a most outside case, was taken to the back room of the building and lodged in the local jail, broke out last night and is still at large. It is believed that he was assisted by someone from the outside in carrying the lock of the jail. Officers are on his trail and his capture may be expected at any moment.—Prescott Journal-Miner.

Bought a Mine.

C. E. England, financial clerk at the Indian Training school of Zuni, New Mexico, returned to that place yesterday after a business visit to the mining sections of this county. He has purchased some mining property in the Pajarito district with which he is very much pleased, and promises to return here to locate in the near future.—Prescott Journal-Miner.

Lawyers Want Nave.

The lawyers, very generally, all over Arizona are signing petitions to the president asking for the appointment of Frederick S. Nave as associate justice of the supreme court in the place of Paul Jensen declined, says the Tucson Citizen. Yesterday sending sixteen members of the bar of Tucson signed the petition, which was wired to the president. Mr. Nave is at present at Prescott in the discharge of his duty as United States attorney. It is thought that if an Arizona gets the appointment Mr. Nave will stand a good chance.

Distinctly Different,
In Every Way the Best

The Weekly Globe-Democrat, of St. Louis, covers a field peculiarly and exclusively its own.

It is issued twice every week. A big SEMI-WEEKLY paper. Eight to ten large pages every Tuesday and Friday. One Dollar a year.

Nothing particularly different, you say, about that, there are other "Twice-a-Week" papers.

Yes, but similarity ends there. No other paper is like the Globe-Democrat in any other respect. No other paper equals the Globe-Democrat in any respect.

An entirely unique feature of the Globe-Democrat, a feature which is highly prized by its readers, is its systematic method of preserving and presenting the CONTINUITY OF NEWS.

The two papers each week, Tuesday and Friday, are carefully prepared with the view of giving the complete news of all the world for that week.

They are so combined in the make-up as to form continued and connected stories of the various important events showing the developments from day to day and the final results.

Other weekly and twice-a-week papers, as a rule, print only a few telegrams of the day of issue.

The "Twice-a-Week" Globe-Democrat gives the telegrams of every day in the week more comprehensively than the average Daily, and of more value to the average reader.

Moreover, the "Twice-a-Week" Globe-Democrat is not simply an echo of the Daily edition.

It is a separate and distinct publication, especially prepared to supply the requirements of people who want all the news of all the earth—and something more.

It presents the World's daily history in concise but complete form. It is of equal interest in all parts of the United States. It is invaluable alike to men and women, young and old.

It thoroughly provides for every member of the family. In high-grade literature it particularly excels. Its market reports are correct and complete in every detail.

Its departments devoted to "The Home," "The Farm and Garden," "The Family Circle," "The Sunday School," "Science and Industry," are each and all THE BEST of their kind and either one more than worth the subscription price of the paper.

In politics it is strictly REPUBLICAN, but it is above all a newspaper, and it tells the truth without fear or favor. It has no equal or rival as a great National news and home journal.

Remember the price, only One Dollar per year—104 papers—less than one cent a copy. Postage prepaid.

You will make no mistake if you send $1.00 TODAY for a year's subscription. Or you can get your own paper ONE YEAR WITHOUT COST by inducing two of your neighbors to subscribe and sending their names with $2.00.

FREE SAMPLE COPIES, containing order blanks and full particulars, will be cheerfully furnished upon receipt of postal card request. Address Globe Printing Company, Publishers, some sort of a grade against the motorman, and suddenly appeared at the smelter yesterday afternoon, and "threw down" on the motorman. The man was really not as big as the motorman and his Mexican brakeman thought it was, but it was big enough. The brakeman went off the side of the car, while the motorman spun the controller until it would move no more. The patient car, used to having the current administered in small doses, leaped into the air, settled on the track and spun up the incline as though it were in a hurry to arrive. The aim of the man behind the gun was thus spoiled and he wandered away from the reduction works.

The trolleyman, however, did not know this and when the car reached the top of the incline near the steps to the ground, he made haste to hide in the timekeeper's office, where, it is said, he unconsciously himself, under a table. But the man of wrath had departed and it was but a few minutes until things were running smoothly.
